The Beginning of a New Series of
Drawings by MENICO

A black and white photograph of a young, muscular man crouching outdoors. He is shirtless, wearing only light-colored briefs, and is barefoot. He is looking off to the side with a slight smile. His right arm is extended upwards and to the left, while his left hand rests on his left thigh. The background consists of a rocky, uneven ground with some foliage visible on the right side.

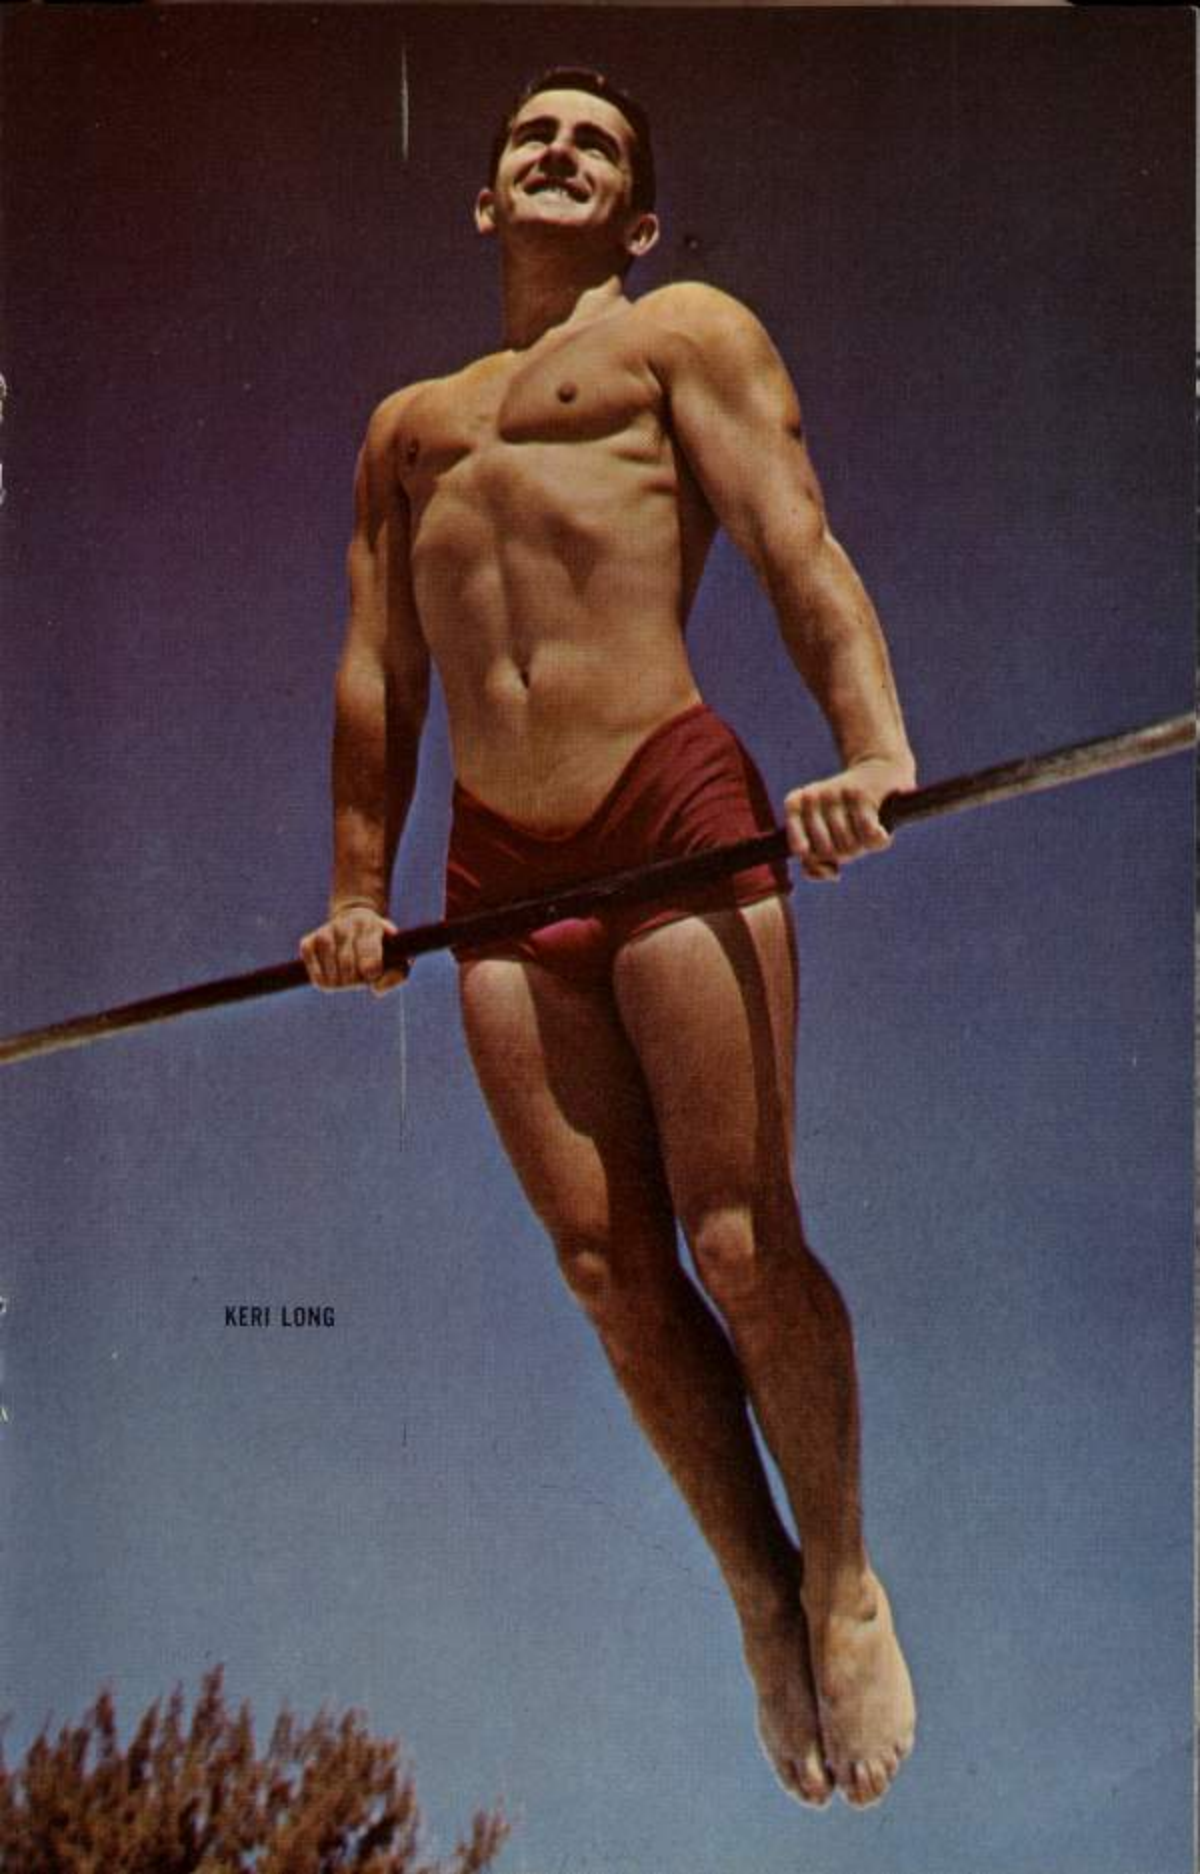

DEAN
ROBERTS

Tenderly will I use you, curling grass,
It may be you transpire from the breasts of young men.

...Walt Whitman

We have no time to stand and stare?

---W. H. Davies

with searching eyes; and arms

O how beautiful is youthfulness
That passes fleeting, nonetheless.
Who'd be happy — let him be!
Tomorrow there's no certainty.

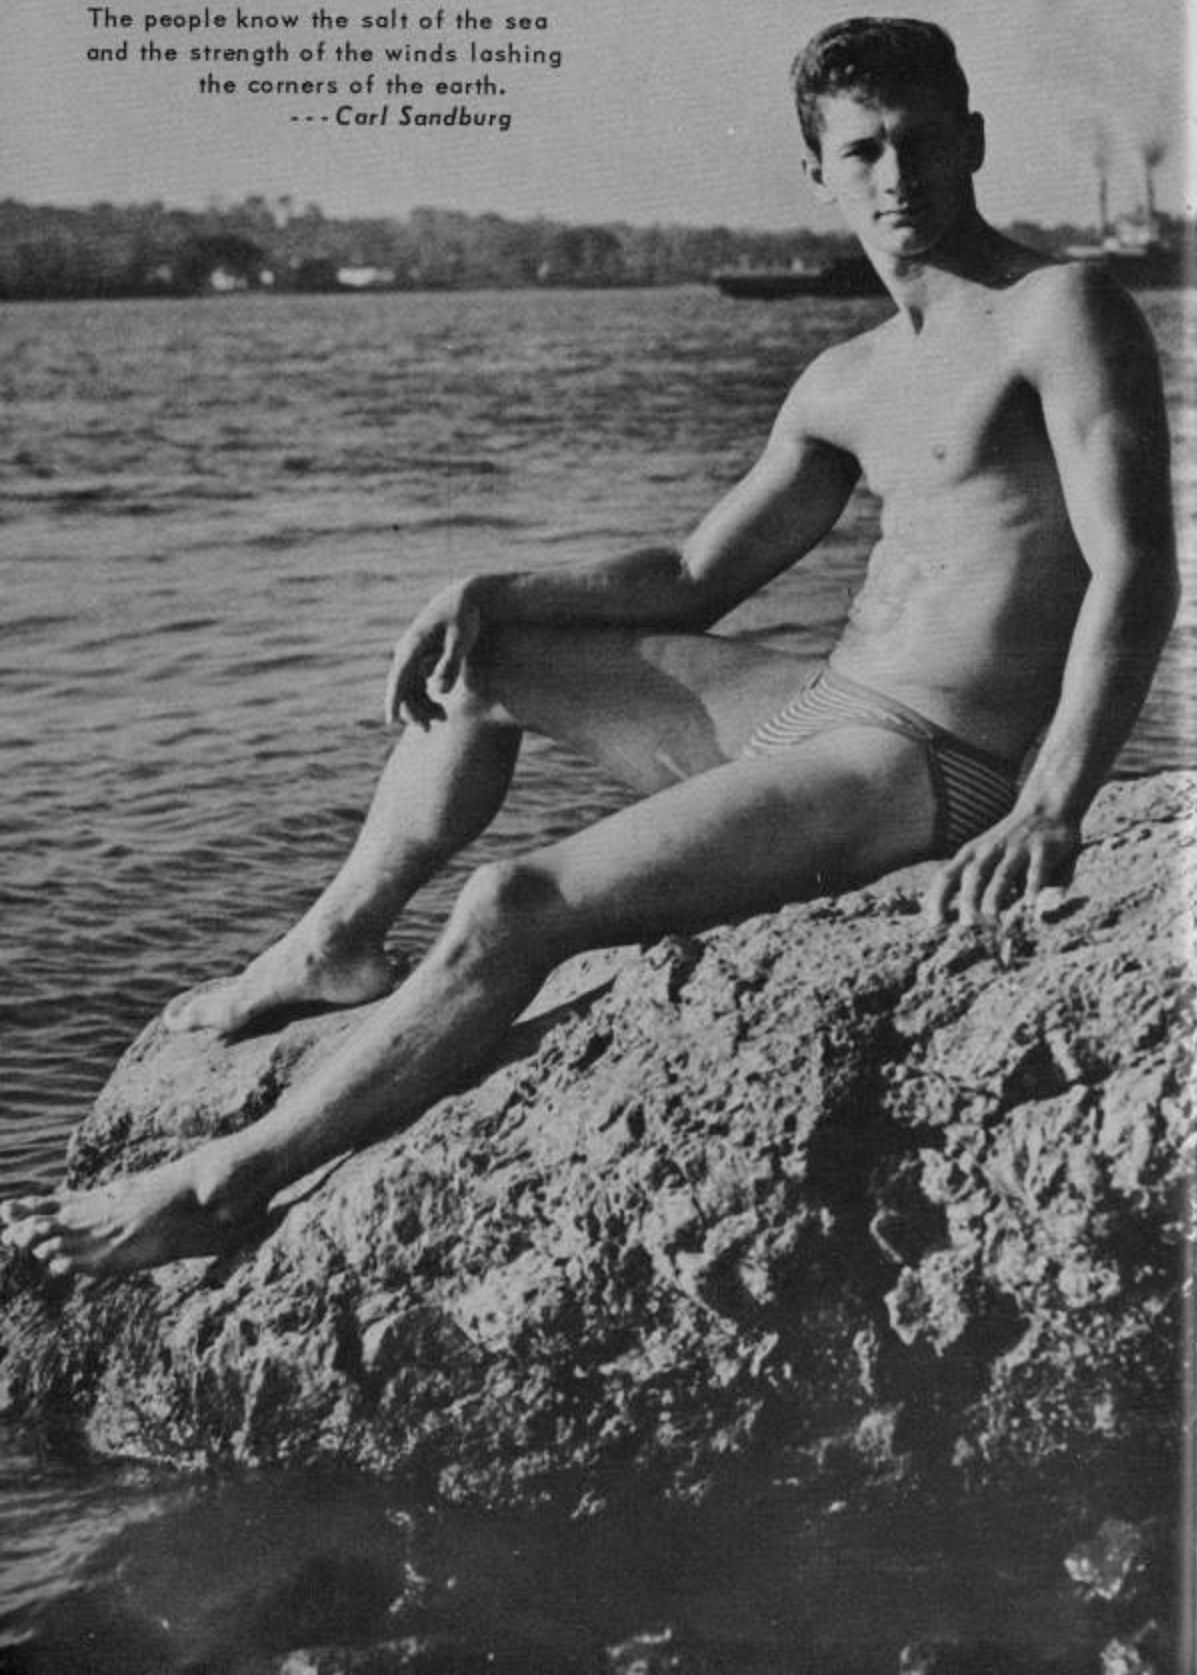

--- Lorenzo de' Medici

and the strength of the winds lashing
the corners of the earth.
